BROOKS FIRES HIS FIRST GUN

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR U. S. SENATORSHIP.

IN RACE TO SUCCEED TELLER

DEFINES POSITION IN A LETTER TO HIS FRIENDS.

BACKED BY PROMINENT MEN

Declares Himself in Response to Request of Many Representative Citizens—Will Make Campaign on His Record in Lower House.

Franklin E. Brooks, former congressman-at-large, yesterday announced his candidacy for the United States senatorship to succeed Senator Henry M. Teller whose term expires in 1909.

Mr. Brooks' announcement is made in the form of an open letter addressed to Governor Warner and Attorney Miller and other Colorado Springs citizens from whom he received a letter yesterday requesting that he announce his candidacy. This request was signed by the Republican citizens, although it was put in circulation by the two Democratic Springs papers Sunday and Monday, and for a time on that day it read as the names of many of Mr. Brooks' friends, who believed a candidacy would have been wise to start.

Mr. Brooks' letter expressed his appreciation of the honor that is conferred upon him by the request, and makes formal announcement of his candidacy.

Will Stand on His Record.

Mr. Brooks has represented Colorado for two terms as congressman-at-large in the representation following the 1900 census. He was elected on the Republican ticket as the first congressman-at-large from this state. In 1904 he was re-elected, but declined to be a candidate for re-election in 1906. During both his terms he served the state with distinction in the House of Representatives, and it is on his record that he will make his campaign for the United States senatorship.

The Request in Full.

The request received by Mr. Brooks, together with his reply, are given below in full:

"Colorado Springs, Nov. 30, 1907.

"To the Honorable F. E. Brooks, Colorado Springs, Colo.

"Dear Sir—We, the undersigned citizens of Colorado Springs, in the belief that we voice the feelings of the great majority of the voters who form the constituency in whose behalf you have labored so faithfully and efficiently as congressman-at-large, respectfully request that you consent to be a candidate for United States senator at the approaching election.

"While it is not our purpose at present to enlarge upon the reasons underlying this request, it may be said in

166 AUTOMOBILES HERE

ESTIMATED COST IS THIRD OF MILLION.

Eighty-four Motorcycles Also Owned in This City—Complete List of Owners.

In proportion to its [illegible] Colorado Springs is probably [illegible] with automobiles than any city in the country. This fact will be proven by records soon to be filed by the city clerk's office, which show that there are now in Colorado Springs 166 licensed automobiles and 84 motorcycles. The estimated cost of the automobiles alone is about $333,000.

Counting Colorado Springs' population as 30,000, the estimate of the last directory, this would make one automobile for every 180 people in the city. One person out of every 360 is the owner either of an automobile or motorcycle. However, as a matter of fact many of the machines are owned by persons living outside the city limits, but who use them in Colorado Springs. The number is about 14,000, so that there is one automobile for about every 90 persons. This is a record which few cities, if any, can equal.

Why Autos Are Popular Here.

It is doubtful if any city in the country can equal this record. This is due to two things. In the first place the people of this city can afford it, and in the second it proves again that Colorado's climate is particularly favorable to automobiling and outdoor life. With roads that can be used every day in the year, and a climate that invites automobiling practically all the time, the machine has quite like great favor here. The records show also that it has come into general use, not only for pleasure, but for business purposes.

Eight of the automobiles, as shown by the license statistics, own two machines. They are: Irving Howbert, A. G. Sharp, G. A. Taff, Carl Chamberlin, James F. Burns, G. E. Dabney, [illegible]

MICHIGAN BANK FAILS

TO AVOID THREATENED RUN BY REMAINING CLOSED.

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—In order to avoid a threatened run on the bank tomorrow, and ratified all depositors and creditors an equal chance in the settlement of the banks affairs, State Banking Commissioner Zimmerman today ordered the Chelsea Savings bank of Chelsea, Mich., would not open for business tomorrow. The president of the bank is State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier, who has deposited in the bank approximately $884,000 of the funds of the state of Michigan. Attorney General Bird said tonight that the [illegible] The state's bond of $300,000 and the bank's bond of $50,000, so that the state will not suffer any loss unless the assets of the bank should fail to pay 50 cents on the dollar, which is considered altogether improbable.

The announcement that the bank will not open tomorrow came at the close of a conference here late today between Commissioner Warner, Banking Commissioner Zimmerman, Attorney General Bird and representatives of the State Bank of Michigan of Grand Rapids, Mich., and five Detroit banks.

It is stated that the banking commissioner has been closely scrutinizing the affairs of the Chelsea Savings bank for some time, in connection with the private business of State Treasurer Glazier of the Glazier Stove company of Chelsea. The conference was held that if Glazier could put these latter interests through, the bank would not necessarily fall into difficulties.

The banks most mentioned, however, in today's conference, announced a decision to petition for a receiver for the Glazier Stove company in order to protect approximately $500,000 of paper which they are reported to have been carrying for Mr. Glazier and the stove company. This action on the part of the banks, it was thought, would cause a run on Mr. Glazier's bank tomorrow, and the closing of the bank was decided upon by Banking Commissioner Zimmerman in order to protect all interests alike.

The bank is capitalized for $100,000, and had a surplus of about [illegible] Glazier is reported to be sick at his home in Chelsea, but was not present at today's conference.

"From the information furnished to Attorney General Bird and myself this afternoon, it seems probable that the difference between the amount of Mr. Glazier's bond and the amount of state funds on deposit with the Chelsea banks will be more than made up by the amount the state will be entitled to receive on liquidation of the bank, so as the matter now looks, the state would suffer no loss."

"PRIZE FIGHT TRUST" PROBED

Oliver Grand Jury Returns Many Indictments on Resumption of Business.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—After being inactive for several months, the Oliver grand jury today, in a partial report, returned nine [illegible] indictments against the so-called "prize fight trust." Members E. M. Graney, J. W. Coffroth and Willis E. Britt, and Abraham Ruef and former Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz. A separate indictment was also found against Schmitz for receiving a bribe from the "fight trust," and three against former Supervisor D. H. Duffy, one for accepting a bribe of $6,000 from the Home Telephone company, one for accepting a bribe of $4,000 from the United Railways, and the third for accepting a bribe of $750 from the San Francisco Gas company. An indictment was also found against Luther Brown for subornation of perjury in connection with the testimony of his chauffeur, Peter Callender, in the Older kidnaping case.

The three members of the "fight trust" against whom indictments were found are charged with the bribery of nine supervisors, each to the amount of $475, which is alleged to have been paid for the prize fighting privileges in 1906.

NO DECISION IN BRADLEY CASE

JURY DELIBERATES FOR SIX HOURS WITHOUT RESULT.

IS LOCKED UP FOR THE NIGHT

DEFENDANT BEARS UP WELL UNDER THE ORDEAL.

POSSIBILITY OF AN ACCIDENT

Judge Stafford, in His Charge to the Jury, Suggests the Consideration of Possible Accidental Shooting—Insanity Rejected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—After deliberating for five hours and 45 minutes the jury in the case of Mrs. Arthur M. Bradley, charged with the murder of Former United States Senator Arthur Brown of Utah, failed to reach an agreement, and were ordered locked up for the night. It was 10 o'clock when the court crier announced that they would be unable to reach an agreement tonight and that the court would convene tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Justice Stafford, who will hand shortly after 5 o'clock, received word by [illegible] of the [illegible] jurors [illegible] a verdict, and then [illegible] dered the jurymen locked up for the night.

The case went to the jury at 4:17 this afternoon and it was 10 o'clock before any word was heard from the jury room. The announcement was received by those in the court room without comment. There were 40 or 50 people present at the time, the majority being women.

Mrs. Bradley Bears Up Well.

Mrs. Bradley spent the time while the jury was deliberating in an anteroom. Her son Arthur was with her. Those who saw her said she bore up under the ordeal with remarkable fortitude and appeared to be cheerful. Mrs. Bradley was taken back to jail for the night. Both the defense and the prosecution made their closing arguments today. Judge Powers, of Salt Lake, senior counsel, and Attorney Hoover, for the defense, occupied the morning session. District Attorney Baker following during the afternoon.

His argument was extended nearly two hours after which the court was prepared to deliver the charge and hand the case to the jury.

The defense laid special stress upon the evidence regarding insanity, and contended that it was former Senator Brown and not Mrs. Bradley, who importuned for the illicit relations; that it was not a case of breaking up a home, but that with Mrs. Bradley it was an attempt to secure a home for her children.

Judge's Charge to Jury.

At 2:25 p. m. Justice Stafford began his charge to the jury. He pointed out the circumstances governing the different verdicts which might be rendered. He asked the jury to first look at the case outside of the question of sanity. He said the jury should determine whether she said intelligently and understandingly that she shot him and whether she actually said she was justified in so doing, as far as anyone could be justified. The jury was to consider the evidence as to whether she made threats bearing on whether she fired the shot; and whether she in fact shot Brown and death resulted therefrom; how she came to do the shooting and how it was done.

He said there had been no argument that she fired in self-defense; that of course, when one takes life in self-defense it is justifiable. If the jury had any reasonable doubt whether the shooting was in self-defense, the defendant should be held not guilty as there is no direct evidence as to how the shooting did occur," said the judge. "I simply call attention to this as a possibility that might be considered."

Possibility of Accidental Shooting.

The court also suggested the consideration of the possibility of accidental shooting. If she was not trying to use the pistol to do any harm to Brown or herself and the pistol discharged accidentally, she would not be guilty. If she was making unlawful use of the weapon and the pistol discharged as a consequence and death resulted therefrom, it would be manslaughter. If Mr. Bradley went to Brown's room to shoot herself, and Brown rushed to prevent her from shooting herself and the pistol killed him, she would be guilty of manslaughter and nothing more.

The court also [illegible] the possibility that Mrs. [illegible] may have been menacing Brown to awe him into marrying her, without intending to shoot him, but that in trying to prevent what he thought was her purpose to shoot himself, he was shot and killed, and did that would be manslaughter.

The court also [illegible] that Brown might have rushed toward her and the circumstances of their [illegible] and the way he approached her and the conversation, may have been such as to shake any [illegible] and she fired [illegible] going to take his life, that would be murder, but in the event [illegible] that she fired intentionally into Brown's body, she is guilty of [illegible] and deliberately and with [illegible] mind, that it was [illegible] the [illegible]

RUMOR IS SET AT REST

ROCK ISLAND OFFICIALS SAY REPORT IS UNFOUNDED.

"The Rock Island railroad is not discriminating against Colorado Springs. To comply with the recently-enacted federal law which requires that train crews shall not be in service over 16 hours, and to meet the necessity of through traffic, a few freight train crews, not more than five, have been removed to Pueblo thereby the rearrangement of runs. Of this number several crews lay over in Colorado Springs [illegible] two or three days each week when [illegible] freight service is not [illegible] [illegible] this the Rio Grande Mountain limited run between Pueblo and Limon. This [illegible] from Colorado Springs is offset by a [illegible] dule which [illegible] trains Nos. 30 and 49 at Colorado Springs instead of Pueblo. As a matter of fact the Rock Island payroll in this city is larger than in years. Colorado Springs will be the last point to be affected by any retrenchment. You may quote me as declaring that there is absolutely no foundation to the rumor that the Rock Island intends to remove the division from Roswell to Pueblo."—H. U. Mudge, second vice president of the Rock Island railroad.

DAILY AFFAIRS VISITORS FILL THE GALLERIES.

RESEMBLES SOCIAL FUNCTION

ADJOURN OUT OF RESPECT TO DECEASED MEMBERS.

SHORT SESSIONS ARE HELD

Joseph G. Cannon Is Elected Speaker of the House—New Members of Senate, Including Guggenheim of Colorado, Are Sworn in.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A brilliant scene characterized the opening of the Sixtieth Congress today. In the Senate and House of Representatives there were notable gatherings of members of the diplomatic corps, of the cabinet, of the judiciary of the capital. [illegible] gather for the first time of the men who have been elected to the Senate and the House, about one hundred of whom have not before served a Congress, made the occasion one of particular interest.

The striking contest [illegible] in the House of Representatives, when the formal selection of Joseph G. Cannon to be speaker of that body and the designation to the Democratic of Mr. Sharp Williams as their leader were occasions for elaborate demonstrations. The [illegible] of the House of Representatives rang with the cheers of Republicans and Democrats for their leaders and the speaker received [illegible] from the minority as he did from his own party.

The spectacle of William J. Bryan on the floor was the occasion for enthusiastic cheering by the Democrats.

When the adoption of rules for the government of the House during the Sixtieth Congress came up, the rules of the last Congress were adopted by [illegible] Sharp Williams and he was joined in the opposition by Democrats and by a single Republican, Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin. The old rules were declared to be too autocratic, placing too much power in the hands of the speaker, but after a sonorous, acrimonious discussion they were adopted by a party vote.

Committees were appointed by both houses to inform the President that Congress had met and was ready to receive any message he might wish to communicate.

New Senators and representatives were sworn in and both houses adjourned out of respect to the memory of members who have died during the recess of Congress.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Senate convened promptly at noon. After Vice President Fairbanks sounded the gavel the proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain.

Senator LaFollette was the first senator to be recognized and presented the credentials of Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin.

The vice president ordered that the roll of senators elect be called alphabetically and they were sworn in by fours, being escorted to the desk by their colleagues.

All of the senators-elect were present except Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, who is ill.

Under the form observed by the senate neither Senator Bankhead nor Senator Johnson will be sworn in until the deaths of Senators Morgan and Pettus have been announced, and as the senate will adjourn in their honor, neither of their successors will be admitted until tomorrow.

It is generally predicted by Republican senators that Senator Knox of Pennsylvania will be appointed to the chairmanship of the committee on rules to succeed Senator Spooner, who has retired. This is recognized as one of the important places in the senate, as it deals with the procedure of the body and imposes rules for the Senate employes to follow.

The new committee on committees, to be appointed by Senator Allison, will deal with a somewhat delicate question in regard to the committee membership, held by Senator Wetmore, whose term as Senator has expired and who, it is believed, will again be elected as soon as the Rhode Island legislature reconvenes.

Were Called to Order.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Promptly at [illegible] Clerk McDowell called the chamber [illegible] to order. Colonel E. S. Pierce, [illegible] the mace, the emblem of order in executive bodies. The hum of conversation suddenly ceased and Clerk McDowell declared the body duly in session.

Chaplain Coudon immediately offered prayer after which the roll was called.

An interested spectator who was given the privilege of the floor was Mr. Gourley, [illegible] to the seat of [illegible] the [illegible] at the seat of Senator Cowan's. The roll call occupied 30 minutes and showed 386 members present.

[illegible] proof is of course at every time in every way that is necessary. The formulas of action in one exigency may never be applied safely in another; government so far as it relates to courses of action, has no fixed precedents and no veneration for those who have gone before justifies living men in approaching live problems with purpose or with vision circumscribed by the limitations of the past.

"But the fundamental principles of free government are eternal and unchanging, resting on the will and responsibility of the people and put in action through the deliberations of conscientious and zealous representatives of that will. This House is the only institution under our constitution where that will of the people may be expressed with a fairness approximating to scientific accuracy.

"Other departments of the government have other and important functions put to this House alone belong the peculiar, the delicate and the all-surpassing function of interpreting and putting in definite form the will of the people. This duty we must perform ourselves. The principles of the past may help us to the extent of showing us the points of the compass, but beyond that we must depend on our own wisdom, our own consciences, our own honesty and our own fidelity to duty.

"So far as the duty of organizing this house shall devolve upon me, I shall endeavor to perform the duty in a way to satisfy the confidence which your selection implies, and to promote the great purposes for which we are assembled. But the duties of the hour rest not alone on myself. They rest on each one of you individually, and on your intelligence and consciousness the people are relying as well as on mine. I have a right to expect your co-operation because such co-operation will be your duty. I hope also that as we go in I may have it because of my motives [illegible] and feel with [illegible] ready for the oath."

Oath Is Administered.

The oath was then administered by Representative Dingham of Pennsylvania, "the father of the House," and in turn the speaker administered the oath to the members who lined up in front of his desk in groups of 25.

The monthly business meeting of the B. E. society of the First Presbyterian church will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of J. S. Van Baron, 211 North Walnut street.

heretofore in arranging the schedules we met the exigencies of through traffic in accordance to the interstate law, reducing the hours of service for train crews. The Rock Island has not and will not discriminate against this city. If any rearrangement is considered, Colorado Springs will be the very last point on the line to feel its effects. This has been the rule in the past and it will obtain under the present management. As an indication of the substantiality of this city, the Rock Island receipts during the recent financial flurry were heavier than for the corresponding period of last year. We appreciate the friendly spirit of this city and you may rest assured that the Rock Island will take no action inimical to its interests."—P. C. Melcher, general manager of the Rock Island railroad.

H. S. Cable Talks.

"Colorado Springs is now and shall remain a division point on the Rock Island, despite rumors that have been spread to the contrary. In order to facilitate the movement of traffic and to observe the newly-enacted federal law, the road has been compelled to shorten runs. Such action required the removal of a few crews, not more than five, from the city. To offset this removal we have terminated other trains here. Our payroll here for the past month will exceed that of November of last year by several thousands of dollars. If there is any one point on the Rock Island road that is in high favor with the road it is Colorado Springs. In the first place, it is one of our great western terminals, a point that we advertise extensively in our literature as worthy of the attention of travelers. Secondly, its substantial foundation as a commercial and residential city makes it a point which does not fluctuate from a railroad traffic point of view. When it comes to train service and handling of traffic a railroad must take such action as will facilitate service. But such action as has been taken has not affected the Rock Island payroll in Colorado Springs."—H. S. Cable, general superintendent of the central district of the Rock Island railroad.

Road Favors This City.

In the foregoing interviews, given yesterday to a representative of The Gazette, high officials of the Rock Island railroad deny that the road is discriminating against Colorado Springs and declare in positive terms that the policy as regards this city is one of expansion rather than retrenchment. They freely admit that several train crews have been transferred to meet the requirements of shortened hours and heavy traffic, but these have been replaced by other crews on trains that terminate in Colorado Springs and by an increase in other departments of the road in this city. They stamp as fictitious the rumor that the division is to be changed from Roswell to Pueblo, and further state that not only the division, but the present headquarters will be maintained here, regardless of reports to the contrary.

Some changes have been made in the runs of the Rocky Mountain limited and in through freight trains, but from a point of permanency requiring the removal of a great number of families from this city, no sweeping revision has been made. As to the freight crews on the Pueblo division, the layover is evenly divided with Colorado Springs the greater portion of the time. If the train is heavy enough to warrant the through haul, it is scheduled through; if not, the crew lays over in Colorado Springs.

Springs Has Advantage.

By the recent change in the through service to Kansas City, [illegible] and [illegible] terminate at Colorado Springs instead of Pueblo, offsetting the removal of the crews on the Rocky Mountain limited. In addition to the establishment of these crews here with their families, five more express messengers now live in Colorado Springs as a result of the change.

Another point worthy of consideration lies in the fact that the families of 25 employes stationed at Limon, Goodland and Phillipsburg are living in Colorado Springs to obtain the advantages of schools and homes and the benefits that accrue in an ideal residential city. While this may be against the strict letter of the rules, the officials have permitted such conditions to exist and none of the employes have been taken to task for such procedure. These men maintain their families here while they are employed at other points.

BURNS FLOORS MOIR

ENGLISHMAN TAKES COUNT IN TENTH ROUND.

American Easily Proves Superiority and Establishes Claim to World's Heavyweight Championship.

LONDON Dec. 2.—Tommy Burns of America knocked out Gunner Moir, of England, in the tenth round before the National Sporting club here tonight. Englishmen never had placed great hope in the ability of their representative to regain their lost honors in the boxing arena and in a moment[illegible] had a comparatively easy task in disposing of Moir's pretensions and securing for himself the title of heavyweight champion of the world.

After the fifth round Burns' victory was certain, and in the tenth, when the Gunner failed to rise to the call of time and was literally cut to pieces, Burns left the ring with scarcely a mark on him. Moir owes his right to participate in championship matches more to influence than to merit and his defeat, therefore, was not a matter of general surprise.

American Proves Superiority.

Burns proved himself superior in every detail. He displayed greater science and infinitely better generalship and his blows were delivered with much more power than those of the Englishman. It was an easy victory for the American, which from the very outset appeared almost a foregone conclusion. The contest aroused a greater amount of excitement and enthusiasm than any decided at the National Sporting club since Slavin's defeat at the hands of Peter Jackson. Burns entered the ring the favorite at odds of seven to four, which would have been still longer, but for the fact that the two fitted backers of Moir covered the Burns' money for a large amount on the chance of a big winning in addition to the stake money.

Except for the difference in weight and Moir's advantage of two inches in height, the men were evenly matched and in perfect form. In the ring Burns' coaching attitude appeared to place him at a still greater disadvantage in height with Moir, who assumed a fairly erect position with his arms extended widely somewhat like a wrestler, and showing no guard.

Wary In Opening Round.

The work in the first round was mostly at long range, the fighters sparring warily. Finally Burns landed two heavy blows on the gunner's nose and cut, the second sending him staggering to the ropes, while the American himself escaped without punishment, avoiding Moir's rushes cleverly. The pace increased in the second round, the ruby getting to close quarters where Burns showed his superiority and did a lot of damage to Moir's body. He received a [illegible] left under the chin, however, which brought him up, but he soon resumed the in-fighting. Moir clinched frequently and was cautioned.

They fought at long range again in the third, Burns being too clever for his adversary, who began to show signs of the punishment he had received. In the fourth Burns took a breather, which allowed Moir to have just a shade the better of a fight round. Burns came back again hard in the fifth, ending the fight from the sound of the bell. He landed a right on the jaw and a left swing cut Moir severely over the eye.

Burns Baffles Moir.

The sixth round was all in favor of the American, whose foot work completely baffled his opponent. Moir became very wild in his attempt to get in his right. In the seventh Burns sent home a terrific swing which made an ugly gash in the gunner's cheek. They came to close quarters, the Englishman clinching and thus avoiding the full force of two well-meant rights. Some holding caused Referee Eugene Corri to enter the ring and separate the fighters. Moir then looked like a beaten man.

In the eighth, however, Moir came back gamely and with the evident intention of trying to stand off the American but he was fought all over the ring and badly punished. Burns set upon him unmercifully in the following round, administering terrific punishment. Moir was now in a sorry plight and the bell just saved him from being put out.

Burns came quickly to the center of the ring in the tenth and forced matters from the start. He forced the gunner to the floor with a short right arm jolt. Moir rose only to be floored again from a hard left to the jaw. He struggled to his feet, but was an easy victim for another cross on the jaw and going down was unable to respond to the call of time.

Burns had known his opponent's measure in the early rounds and although Moir showed marvelous pluck, he was unequal to the American in any respect. A tremendous crowd outside the National Sporting club awaited the result and the announcement of Burns' easy victory caused the greatest excitement.

"That the present crisis is not wholly due to our perverted and immobile monetary system is quite likely true. At the same time the evil might in a great measure have been mitigated if we had got our own house in order. Until we have a stable and elastic currency system we will be constantly subjected from time to time to acute and humiliating financial conditions like those which now confront us

MUST NOT RIDE ON WALKS

Even Paper Carriers Denied Privilege—Colorado City Council Has Another Busy Session.

The most important matter coming up for consideration at the council last night was in regard to the general practice of riding bicycles on the sidewalks. Paper carriers have been prone to ride on the sidewalks in delivering their papers, but it seems as if almost every boy in the city is delivering papers at all times of the day as well as nights, why seemed to have taken on this way of carrying "pin money" on account of the numerous [illegible] It was decided that no one should ride on the sidewalks and that one dollar will be fined $5 for the first and $10 for each subsequent offense.

The question of better ventilation in the jail and the matter was discussed and turned over to the committee on public buildings.

A saloon license was applied for by James Sting, 812 Colorado avenue, but was not allowed as there were mistakes in the application and not large enough check accompanied the petition.

Reports were given in different city officials and chairmen of the various committees. The poor house bill was read and on the table because Colorado Springs had not furnished sufficient information in regard to [illegible] payment.

The report of Police Chief Gregory showed that during the past month 44 drunkards had been fined, the inmates and proprietors of [illegible] disorderly houses had been arrested and fined, besides two vagrants, two peddlers without licenses, and four for fighting. The fire department had three calls.

The street committee had a bill of $48 for street work, and another for the same purpose of $42. The mounted police reported 325 meals to prisoners.

The regular monthly bills were allowed. Anthony Hoit presented a bill for $50 for water given to the city for the cemetery. This is an annual bill. It was considered too high and turned over to the finance committee. Light bill for $279.15 was allowed. The bill for shoeing the fire and other horses was presented, but the fire horse bill was referred back to the finance committee, as it was considered too large. The bill for shoe-

AN OPEN CANDIDATE.

IN another place in this issue of The Gazette will be found two letters which are of especial interest to the people of this city and county. One is a letter to Mr. Franklin E. Brooks, signed by nine hundred and thirty of his fellow-citizens of this town asking him to allow his candidacy for the United States Senate the other is his reply. Both are short and to the point, and between them they constitute a sort of platform on which his canvass is to be made.

The names that are signed to the request will be examined with care. They will be found to be representative of all sorts of interests and all kinds of people. There are business men and professional men, laborers and capitalists—in short, a thoroughly representative constituency. A large majority of them are men who have not been known as actively in politics, although, as citizens like all good citizens, they take enough interest in matters political to try to secure good men for public offices. They know Mr. Brooks more or less intimately, many of them have for a score of years, they have seen his career as a Representative in Congress, they respect his character and they believe he is the sort of man who ought to be elected to represent this state in the senate. On the ground of his character and past services, not only to the party but to the state in general, they practically present him to the people of the state as a man whom they heartily endorse for this high office.

The reply is straightforward and open as the request. Mr. Brooks does not hide his honorable ambition for further public service, and responds to the wish of his constituents in a manly and graceful way. He pays a high compliment to them, or his avowed principles, and congratulates the people of the state that the canvass with such opponents is likely to be fair and honorable throughout.

The people of Colorado have the PROSPECT of a CLEAN FIGHT. most to be congratulated on the prospect that the Senatorial will not turn out to be the dirty, underhand and above board. Apparently there is to be no underground work, no secret barter and sale. While we have not as yet any system of direct primaries in this state, still there is time between now and the next meeting of the legislature for a pretty full expression of public opinion on this subject, and we don't see why it will be found to make that opinion coincide with the men who shall be elected to the Seventeenth General Assembly.

The Gazette is a Republican paper, but it is not the wish of any man or set of men in that party to "put over" anybody. We shall support the candidacy of Mr. Brooks because we believe he is a good man for the place, because we believe that his private character and his public services should rendered shall merit the endorsement of the Republicans of the state, because we believe he is competent, capable to himself and his state. In the four years he was in Congress he won the respect of all his colleagues in the House and earned a reputation for doing what he went after for his constituents, that was the subject of many a good-natured joke in the House. He spoke and spoke well when it was necessary, but he is essentially no orator, but a worker, and his services would be more valuable to the state than those of any man who directed most of his energies to the composition of set speeches to adorn the pages of the Congressional Record and encumber the mails of the postoffices in his state. For these reasons, among others, but these are enough for present purposes—we are sure that the people of Colorado will make no mistake if they send to the next legislature a representative who will vote for Franklin E. Brooks for senator.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL AND THE WEST.

If current rumors be true and they seem to be based on fact—the coming election in the Illinois Central directorate will be of considerable interest to the people of Colorado and the West generally. It is alleged that Mr. Fish has "lined up" with the Gould system and that if he is successful in his fight for control of that road he will establish close relations with the Gould roads, and that the business which hitherto has been thrown to the Harriman railroads will hereafter go to the Missouri Pacific and its allies. In proof of this is adduced the fact that Mr. Fish has recently become a member of the Missouri Pacific directory, and it is said the Gould influence has been at work assisting him to get proxies for the Illinois Central election.

The last round of the Fish-Harriman fight in New York ended apparently in favor of Mr. Fish. It was not decisive, but it seemed that the Harriman influence was not able to oust him and keep him out. The next round was postponed until this month, and that will probably be decisive. If Mr. Fish wins, and goes back as president of the road, or chairman of its board, there can be no doubt that its relations with the Harriman system will not be such as they have been since Harriman ousted Fish and put in Harahan as president. The effect of a new line-up of this kind on Colorado and the West in general, and especially the Southwest, may be readily seen. It would give the Gould system an outlet to the east, and divert to it a large amount of business which has hitherto gone to the Union and Central Pacific. It looked at one time as if the Harriman influence was to be preponderant in a dangerously large extent of territory, and this arrangement would restore the balance of things to a very considerable degree. For this reason, and because the people of Colorado, from its very beginnings, have been friendly to the Denver & Rio Grande road, their sympathies in this case will be largely with Mr. Fish and Mr. Gould. It appears inevitable that the Illinois Central shall be part of some ingenious system, and not pursue its way as an entirely independent organization; and if this is so, we should naturally prefer it "hooked up" with a system that is friendly, already, and is doing a great deal—as it always has done—for the upbuilding and development of this state.

THE NEW GAME.

THE football season is all over. The noise of the captains and their shouting has ceased. The sporting pages will be dull, and not much but a little postseason comment will be found. One thing, however, remains to be said. The "new game" has come to stay. Indeed, that much was evident at the close of last season. The new game was so much of an improvement on its predecessor from the spectators' point of view that there could be no doubt that in its main features it would be retained. But it has been improved this year. Much progress has been made in the evolution of new plays, some of them of the highly spectacular kind, and the future lines of development are now pretty clearly marked out.

Perhaps the most obvious thing as one looks over the season's play is that the teams have not yet developed a knowledge and skill that permits them to make the most of their chances. The forward pass is still an trial, and while it will probably remain it will be modified next year. The on-side kick has received some attention, principally in the East, but the Western teams have not made anything like as much of it as they might. But it is in the kicking department that the greatest need of improvement is manifest. The punters have developed finely, and in this department the Western teams will stand comparison with any those in the East; but the goal-kicking is still lamentably uncertain. There has been some splendid examples of this play in our state contests this year, mainly in the practice, but drop-kicking has not received anything like the amount of attention it has in the East and the percentage even of successful kicks from placement has been too low. In the Minnesota-Boulder game Thanksgiving day, for instance, there were seven tries for goal from the field, and only one of them was successful. The C. C. lose the game to Golden because for once the machine went wrong and would not work. It was the failure of the first try for goal in the game which changed the whole aspect of the struggle, since the Tigers knew all the steam, or the Tigers knew.

On the whole, the new rules have proved a success, and there will be no very radical changes in them for next year, but there remains a great chance for development of the possibilities of them, especially in the on-side kicking game and the forward pass.

WHISKY AND SAUSAGE.

From the New York Evening Post.

The new factory inspection system which the government has had to probe to show a few new ones contained in the two questions "What is whisky?" and "What is sausage?" The first question we have already discussed in our people way. The second is now up for adjudication. It comes in the form of a novel invocation of the states' right issue. In the picture of the federal government, water and cereals are legitimate ingredients of sausage. In that of the state of Michigan, mother of health foods, they have no place in sausage. A hundred thousand dollars are already at stake upon the controversy, and an injunction suit is under way. People have been brought up on sausage composed partly of "cereals," which word, as we understand it, means cracker crumbs. Their admixture is a deceit only when the compounded sausages are sold in competition with all meat sausage. It makes the sausages more rather than less wholesome, no doubt. With the observation that in cases like this the word "adulterated" must lose its repelling and grisly significance, we may couple an expression of our thankfulness that the controversy does not concern some of the other substances which meddling fingers in those delectable vaults which Henley called "chags of mysteries."

AN URGENT, THOUGH BELATED, WORK.

From the Kansas City Star.

The meeting of the inland waterway committee in Washington today to adopt a report for submission to President Roosevelt as a suggestion for national legislation on the subjects of the improvement of inland rivers, preservation of American forests, prevention of soil erosion in the river valleys and the elimination of the reckless waste of all the natural resources of the country is none the less felicitous as an indication of a wholesome national awakening merely because it is a half-century tardy in materializing.

But because such an awakening ought to have occurred 50 years ago is not to be taken as an assumption that there is in the movement any suggestion of indifference. It is far too late for the American people to realize handsomely upon the adoption of the policy to be outlined by the Washington conference.

It would have been far better, of course, had there been national legislation against the wanton destruction and waste of the nation's resources before that policy which has been characteristic of our national life had increased the price of coal 25 per cent to the people, and the price of iron at the same ratio. But it is not too late for federal legislation to prevent a further waste of these resources before the price is increased another 25 per cent.

And, however much better it would have been had the government encouraged and aided the navigation of the inland rivers for the transportation of commerce before the railroads secured absolute domination of the transportation industry, it is not too late, by any means, to return to the river navigation and as a relief from the burden which the railroads have imposed as a tribute upon American commercial interests.

"WHO KILLED THE DEMOCRACY?"

From the New York Mail.

Who killed the Democratic party? The World is hot severe on Bryan when it implies that that is his work, and cartoons him as painting the map of the entire country a Republican black.

The Democratic press bureau is not fair to the Peerless. Nor is it consistent with itself. After the Parker fiasco in 1904 there were few voices to say that Bryan was responsible for the party's defeat. He was lauded in the popular vote. Nor is the Democratic press just to its party tradition when it affects that one man could achieve such power, even of destruction, in its councils. A party with that name is supposed to really be democratic, elevated to a government of ideas rather than of men, and embodying "the common sense of most" and not the undue influence of differing personalities.

No, so far as it is "safe" the Democratic party is self-slain. It is suffering from the effects of a monumental mistake in principle, and a subsequent policy which has made opportunity for the bungler in intelligent leadership thereby created. It has gone wrong, deliberately or casually, for some 14 years. Bryan is potent in its councils because he has voiced each of its errors, not because he originated them. The party had burned the bridges behind it in 1896 and set its feet on the crazy path of free silver before it placed its standard in his hands. It needed no urging from him to embark, after the Spanish war, into a policy of opposition to the results and lessons of that war. Against his advice it took up, in 1904, with a "safe and sane" platform, underwritten by Ryan and Belmont. Whatever strength his policy of government and state ownership of the railroads has had since it owes to the incongruous union within the party of the state's rights dogma and the Populist profession of faith.

Perhaps the Republican party has had something to do, itself, in administering the lethal draught to Democracy. It has been accused of opportunism and it is not fully absolved of that charge. It has been accused of borrowing Democratic ideas, and there is some slight color of truth in that charge. But it is noticeable that when it borrows, it does not select from a numerous collection the best ideas, and that these latter are forthwith gathered to the bosom of Dame Democracy with the redoubled devotion that is born of family bereavement. The majority party has at least the recommendation that it went right, bravely and greatly, in 1898, that its subsequent policies have been in harmony with the national genius, and that its opportunism has been fortunate, well judged and rectified by the event.

The country has had no particular need of the Democratic party lately, save as a criticism and a protest, and the Democratic party has been in no shape to be anything else. It has been disqualified by its internal divisions for constructive work and the prevailing public opinion without rudder has not had guidance sufficiently intelligent and commanding to supply it with a program for such work. Even with disturbed industrial conditions at home the minority is not in posture to lay the blame on the majority. Its record is ill hurt and not well, when the time comes to apportion responsibility.

FETCHING UP THE CHILD IN WYOMING.

From the Riverton (Wyo.) Republican.

Never blow cigar smoke down a child's throat until after it is two months old. Never step on the baby's face when walking in the dark, as you may lose your balance and fall. In walking the floor at night with a child never jam its face against a red-hot stove. It is considered unlucky. Never let a child crack walnuts with its teeth until it is at least one year old, as it causes palpitation of the gums. While giving the baby a bath care should be taken not to keep its head under water for more than 25 minutes at a stretch. Before giving "ditch water" to a child boil it—that is boil the water. The child will have boils of its own before it is grown.

The Independent Voter's Chance

Samuel E. Moffett, in Collier's Weekly.

This year the voter, alone in the polling booth "with ink pencil and his God," has luxuriating in an opportunity to strike where he has pleased. Republicans hold the field in some quarters, Democrats in others, and bipartisan tickets in others. There has been nothing to show any general partisan drift indeed, it is hard just at present to tell with any degree of accuracy just what a Republican or a Democrat is.

It is characteristic of the "offness" of this remarkable off year that the elections of most national interest have been not in states but in cities. San Francisco, Cleveland, Toledo and New York have had local contests which have attracted the attention of the entire country.

Probably the most important election in the entire Union was that in San Francisco. Here was an ordinary scramble of politicians, but a grim struggle in which the very salvation of a great city was at stake. It was San Francisco's first chance to pronounce a verdict at the polls upon the work of regeneration carried on through the courts during the past year. Two years ago Schmitz, after his exposure, but before his prosecution, had been able to beat a ticket nominated by the Republicans and Democrats combined. This year he directed from his cell in the county jail a campaign against a divided opposition. The Republican party, instead of renominating the present reforming mayor, Dr. Taylor, had put up a machine politician, Daniel A. Ryan. Dr. Taylor had to depend upon the Democrats and upon a section of the Republicans, acting through the Good Government league. The Democracy had formerly been in the majority in San Francisco, but had been reduced to the position of an impotent third party by the defection of the labor element that had formed its backbone. The Democratic nomination, therefore, was not enough in itself to beat Mayor Taylor. Labor's support, which the Democracy could gather.

The election of the Union Labor ticket, headed by Patrick A. McCarthy, would have been an appalling disaster. It would have meant the repeal of the license ordinance and the rise of the property on a vastly and unprecedented scale than ever. The conservatives would have held, and with perfect justice, that that was the sort of a government San Francisco wanted. The work of rebuilding the city would have been stricken with palsy. Trade would have died, and the spirit of hope which had lived undaunted through earthquake and fire would have been slain. Disaster was averted. Nobody will thousands of Republicans refuse to play politics when a deadly menace like that of April 18, 1906, was hanging over their homes, but thousands of honest workers were induced to take off their coats when the call to arms was sounded in the name of labor. Mayor Taylor was reelected by a plurality of something like 5,000. Even Abraham Langdon, who had received the Republican and Democratic nominations, came in by 12,000, and the vindictive prosecution of the corruptionists was ended. The rebuilding of San Francisco will proceed now under an honest government, which will not have to placate bribing capitalists rioting strikers, or grafting politicians.

It is hardly possible to conceive a sharper contrast than that between the campaign in San Francisco and that in Cleveland. San Francisco was fighting for plain Cleveland was discussing with one question whether a good government could be made better. The central issue was that of the proper relations between the city and its street railroads. Instead of the unscrupulous and predatory corporation that had helped to debauch the politics of San Francisco, Cleveland had a street railroad company of decent instincts and practices. Tom Johnson had forced this company to offer seven rides for a quarter with universal transfers, under a twenty-year franchise. That proposition, which would have been hailed with joy in almost any other American city, was not sufficiently advanced for Johnson. He insisted upon three-cent fares, with franchises revocable at any time.

Aside from its traction record the Johnson administration asked a vote of confidence on the ground that it had made the parks "the people's commons." It had opened a municipal electric plant which had destroyed the old monopoly in street lighting, had "set the pace for the world in its treatment of the poor and destitute," and made Cleveland the admiration of all America for its public improvements, had served the public in the details of daily life, had made the city one of the cleanest in America, had maintained an honest government for seven years, and had accomplished everything on a tax rate lower than in 1900. These assertions were of course denied by the Republicans, who imported the element of national politics into the campaign. Representative Theodore E. Burton was taken from his position of usefulness and dignity at Washington to run against Johnson with the blessing of President Roosevelt. But Cleveland showed no disposition to take orders from the White House, and Johnson was elected for the fourth time by a plurality of 9,313—an outcome for which even his opponents may find consolation in the fact that it leaves Mr. Burton free to continue his admirable work in Congress.

Toledo had a curious campaign. Brand Whitlock, the disciple and successor of Golden Rule Jones, was appealing for re-election as an independent candidate. His opponents admitted his good intentions, but called him a dreamy idealist. Who was affording view to run rampant while he spun fine theories. They said that his queer theories of personal liberty had permitted Sunday liquor selling, Sunday theatricals, gambling, and the "social evil" to flourish, and they demanded the election of a mayor who would punish violations of good order with a heavy hand. They got sermons preached on this subject in the churches. The Independent Party refused to accept this definition of the issue. It said that the great issue was special privilege, especially as embodied in franchise corporations. "In every city in the land," said Mr. Whitlock, "we find this same issue presenting itself. . . . The time has come, the hour is here, when we must decide whether this city shall be ruled by its people or by its corporations, whether the city is to control its monopoly, or monopoly control the city." The voters of Toledo decided to accept Mayor Whitlock's definition rather than that of his fellow-worker, the Rev. Clayton Townsend Brady, and Mr. Whitlock was reelected by between five and six thousand.

The result of the election is not yet known, but it is safe to say that the political extinction of William Randolph Hearst. Nevertheless, the defeat of the Hearst-Republican fusion was not so crushing as some of its opponents would have liked to make it out. The Tammany candidate for sheriff, Thomas F. Foley, beat the Fusion candidate, Maximilian Hunkin, by a plurality of 24,917. Considering the fact that many respectable citizens, ordinarily against Tammany, supported its ticket this time to bury Hearst, this was by no means a remarkable victory. The margin was much smaller than the that many respectable majority in the county. The Republicans had an easy victory in Brooklyn over a demoralized Democracy led by the notorious Mr. Carren.

From a party point of view the state elections were sufficiently characterized by the fact that Kentucky went Republican and Rhode Island Democratic. In each case the reversal was pretty well deserved. Apart from general issues there was a rather general revival of Democratic strength—that is to say, something that could be called a revival by comparison with the previous state of abject collapse. The Democrats appeared at first, for instance, to have carried New Jersey, and although later returns did not bear out this indication, the Republican majority was reduced from 80,000 to about one-tenth of that number. There was a Democratic sweep in the counties forming New Jersey's metropolitan district. In the Tilden and Cleveland days New Jersey used to be a Democratic state, but for a dozen years Jersey Democrats have forgotten what victory tastes like. The comparatively easy approach to success made by Mr. Karczmarek this year has been treated by some newspaper representatives of financial opinion as a rebuke to President Roosevelt and a repudiation of the policies. But that view does not seem to have been at all prevalent among the people who did the voting. Their chief idea was that they were settling the question of the proper regulation of saloons.

In Massachusetts the Democracy went to smash and Governor Guild had a walkover, or rather a climb over the pieces. There were two causes for this, either one of which would have been sufficient. In the first place the Democratic party could not agree upon a candidate and split in two. In the next place Mr. Henry M. Whitney, who had taken personal charge of the ark of the covenant of tariff reform, made public the pious vow that subject to a program as laughably futile and cowardly that no real reformer could regard it with anything but contempt. His scheme was to lower the tariff by imperceptible stages for the next twelve years, and at the end of that time to leave it higher than many Republicans think it ought to be now. There is hardly a doubt that the Republican party, under the leadership of men like Roosevelt and Taft, or, to speak of La Follette, will adopt a scheme of tariff reform far better than that Massachusetts gave Governor Guild 188,648 votes, against 88,432 for Whitney, "Democrat," 4,846 for Hisgen, Independence League, and 11,110 for Bartlett, "Anti-railroad Merger." In Boston the irrepressible Moran rode over both parties by 27,000.

The stomach of Pennsylvania, temporarily turned two years ago by an overconsumption of candels, has now fully recovered its strength, and the exposure of the state capitol frauds has not interfered with the election of the Republican state ticket by 175,000 majority. The successful candidate for state treasurer, however, represents the better element of the organization Philadelphia, too, is sleeping comfortable on the door mat of her old political masters, like a well-fed housedog.

The Republicans have held Nebraska and the Democrats Maryland and Virginia. The advancing tide of prohibition has swept over half of Delaware, whining the two rural counties of Kent and Sussex. Wilmington and the rest of Newcastle county continue to tolerate the sinners.

With the curiously variegated results of this country's elections the political outlook takes on a new tinge. Party spirit begins to revive. The languid skirmishes of off year politics are over, and with the opening of the Sixtieth Congress will come the beginning of a strenuous national campaign, whose issues are as yet but dimly foreshadowed.

COCKROACH RACING IN NEW YORK

From the New York Press.

There are several places in New York where cockroach racing is a popular sport. Much money changes hands on the results, and the general hilarity is about equal to that engendered by a horserace. The cockroaches run on a mat there are six runways side by side 40 feet in length. Each is three inches wide and four inches deep. Fine sand is sprinkled on the bottom, and the top is covered with glass to prevent the roach from flying from the track, so to speak—that is, to curb his aggressive ardor. Some of these black-armed chaps (the largest of roaches) are nearly three inches in length when fully extended, and they can run as fast as a turkey. The handicapping is accomplished by increasing the depth of sand in the bottom of the runway. It is harder to run in deep sand than in shallow.

Of course, there is much fraud in cock-roach racing. One element of thievery is eliminated, however, in the prohibition of jockeys. But there is the trainer to be reckoned with. If he wants to lose a race he can overfeed his roach or give him a little milk; or he can scrape the feet or pull out his feet. When a man goes in for a gamble he can always find a way to cheat. You can bet to lose as well as bet to win.

What the Press Agents Say

SEATS FOR THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH.

The announcement of the production at the Opera House next Thursday evening of Paul Armstrong's new comedy, "The Heir to the Hoorah," has special interest for many people who will remember Mr. Armstrong as the sprightly sporting editor and writer who so ably entertained his readers with picturesque accounts of gunfights encounters over the signatures of "Right Cross." Mr. Armstrong is said by New York critics who are familiar with his [illegible] to be even better with [illegible] than he was with the pen, and [illegible] will be seen at the Opera House.

Scene from "THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH," at the Opera House Thursday Evening.

[illegible] to duplicate in [illegible] the success of Bat Nelson and Joe Gans, will meet in a finish fight at the Opera House Saturday evening, when Manager Jack Curley presents Joe Thomas, of Cripple Creek, and Dave Lucy, of Denver, in a ten-round bout. Both boys are favorites and have a host of admirers, so the match promises to be a hot one. Thomas has been training at the Cripple Creek resort for the past month, while Lucy has been working out at the gymnasium of Joe Vosper in Denver. Both boys are in the best of condition and ready to step into the ring at the drop of the hat. Lucy will be seen in the Antelope Park trail.

The sale of seats and boxes for the engagement of "The Heir to the Hoorah" opens at the box office this morning.

"THE MAYOR OF TOKIO."

Richard Carle's most successful comedy, "The Mayor of Tokio," is the attraction at the Opera House Saturday matinee and night with Mr. Frank L. Perley in the title role of Mayor Orlando Kidder, whose Americanisms in Japan fix him in a series of humorous complications, reputed to be of the most hilarious. Mr. Perley is well known and admired in this city and has appeared with success in many high class productions. [illegible] Mr. Carle's play is the story of [illegible] Mr. Perley in the part of Mayor Orlando Kidder has the best [illegible] he has ever had. Lois Ware, Grace Cassidy and Miss Stephanie Longfellow will also be seen in prominent roles. The chorus is composed of thirty-three very pretty girls, and the cast of characters is all that is to be desired for a musical comedy.

"CHECKERS."

That thrilling character comedy, "Checkers," is scored by the management of the Opera House for the delectation of its patrons on next Monday evening. The striking play which is now beginning the fifth year of its life has already been seen here several times [illegible] will be seen at matinee.

The same company seen here last season in Hans Roberts's [illegible] the title role and Dave Braham, Jr., will be seen again in his original characterization of "Push" Mellor. Ida Van Cortlandt and George Miller as the cheerful southern [illegible]. The rest of the cast is the same with the exception of that Miss Stephanie Longfellow will play. For this season Miss Longfellow is the gentle [illegible] the piece and is a girl of rare beauty and considerable skill.

There is scarcely need for relating the plot. It has been made familiar to [illegible] of the playgoers of this city by the [illegible] former visits here.

Testimonial to Miller Piano

New York City, October 19, 1907.

I have had a Miller Piano in my home for seven years and have found the truest satisfaction in its reliable and solid qualities. It is more, however, than a GOOD piano. Its tone quality is the sweetest like the sweetness of the human voice and of Person like itself. I do not know of any instrument that speaks to me what is to my feeling and speaks quite as clearly and strongly as the Miller Piano. It is a real companion for a man's best hours, and for his greatest needs.

REVENGE HAS A GOOD RECORD

Work on Eldorado Property Is Progressing With Good Results—Other Properties Advancing.

ELDORA, Colo., Dec. 2.—The Revenge is now down 80 feet and the ore body is 10 to 20 feet, it is stated. This property is under the management of Mr. Ludlow Snipe, a very high grade ore is now being taken out for shipment.

The Koh-i-noor tunnel is now in solid limestone and running on the vein. It is expected that within a few days the property of Eldorado and Ida Mines will be reached.

Work has been resumed on the Jack Rose with 8 shovels, nothing of importance developed since last report.

The property known as the Tellie-Ida Mines, which is situated on the north side of Eldora mountain, within 50 feet of the Big Chief, owned by Mr. Hall, of Denver, is showing up well. The Enterprise mine was a great producer in the early days of Eldora.

The Bonanza group of mines is now open and ready for shipment. It has a fine body of high grade ore and will be shipped to the mill at Boulder Springs. This property is under bond to Spencer Brothers.

A great deal of development work is being done on the Monarch Star group of claims, owned by Spencer Brothers. This group consists of 10 full claims and they have been developing a great deal of the ledge.

The Champion Gold Mining and Leasing Co. on the south slope of Tenmile mountain are putting a mill in shipping order this week.

GOOD SHIPMENT MAINTAINED

Trilby Mines Company Is Sending Out Several Cars of High-grade Ore—Mill Soon to Be Built.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 2.—The Trilby Mines Company, operating on the Trilby and the Hardscrabble claims on the west slope of Bull hill, directly opposite Battle mountain, is sending out one car of ore each day. Shipments to the smelting most of the ores to the landing of the new Trilby mill, which is now under contract to be constructed and in operation about April or May next.

There are several sets of lessees operating in the Trilby and the Consolidents now being made up largely by them. The company, however, within the past few days shipped out a small bunch of ore, which averaged in value from $40 to $50 per ton. The ore body is said to be from 3 to 4 feet wide and to have extension of from 500 to 800 in gold to the ton. This ore was mined from the west end of the property, which is about 1,000 feet from the Independence mine.

HAVEN UP TO DATE.

E. Stroch, of Fayetteville, Ark., writes: "I was troubled with kidney and bladder trouble, but without results. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure was recommended to me and I got a bottle. It relieved me at once and I was able to work entirely well from then on. I have since recommended it to many persons who got the same results. It is practically given up by the doctors here. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure was a remarkable relief to me." Sold by Bell Drug Co.

STRIKE IN JO DANDY

ORE IS ENCOUNTERED WHILE DOING DEAD WORK.

Vein Four Feet Wide Uncovered, According to Report—Property Never in Better Shape.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 2.—An encouraging strike is reported to have been made during the past few days in the Jo Dandy on Raven hill. The news, to the effect that a vein fully four feet wide has been uncovered and opened well has created a furor. From which assays are to be had running into the thousand dollars per ton across the vein matter, would indicate that the ore will run to carry lead bullion from three to five ounces in gold to the ton. Both free gold and sylvanite are to be found.

According to the unconfirmed reports, nothing but a body of ore, of whatever character it may be, is encountered, and it is expected that within a few days the full extent of the find will be known. The workings of the Jo Dandy are located on the Raven lode, which is considered one of the best in the district. The property is under bond to Denver people, who have been working on it for the past few months. Recently the ore was struck in the bottom of the shaft at the rate of from 7 to 10 tons daily. The Jo Dandy property is one of the better shape and showing with the new strike, seemed to be the most promising of the properties in operation. The average grade of the ore that is being put through the mill is said to be about $25 in gold to the ton.

GOOD SHIPMENT MAINTAINED

Trilby Mines Company Is Sending Out Several Cars of High-grade Ore—Mill Soon to Be Built.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 2.—The Trilby Mines Company, operating on the Trilby and the Hardscrabble claims on the west slope of Bull hill, directly opposite Battle mountain, is sending out one car of ore each day to the smelting most of the ores to the landing of the new Trilby mill, which is now under contract to be constructed and in operation about April or May next.

There are several sets of lessees operating in the Trilby and the Consolidents now being made up largely by them. The company, however, within the past few days shipped out a small bunch of ore, which averaged in value from $40 to $50 per ton. This ore was mined from the west end of the property, which is about 1,000 feet from the Independence mine.

HAVEN UP TO DATE.

E. Stroch, of Fayetteville, Ark., writes: "I was troubled with kidney and bladder trouble, but without results. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure was recommended to me and I got a bottle. It relieved me at once and I was able to work entirely well from then on. I have since recommended it to many persons who got the same results. It is practically given up by the doctors here. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure was a remarkable relief to me." Sold by Bell Drug Co.
